College of the Redwoods Revitalizing the Ag Program

College of the Redwoods has been working to improve the Agriculture Program not only for the full time students attending college, but also for the community members who are involved in the agricultural industry.

Recently, College of the Redwoods was fortunate to receive a donation from CalTrans for the mitigation of the loss of Ag lands at the Highway 101 and Hwy 36 overpass. The mitigation, required by the Coastal Commission, directed Caltrans to donate 2 Million Dollars to the C/R Foundation to help improve the Agricultural program.

The college is showing their dedication to the Ag Department by searching for a full time Ag Professor and updating their curriculum & courses that will transfer easily to other four year colleges. This new and exciting improved Ag program will begin this fall.

Humboldt County Farm Bureau plans to welcome the new professor and become active in supporting College of the Redwoods Ag Department. If you are a former C/R Student or just interested to promoting our local college and would like to join the Farm Bureau C/R Committee please call 443-4844 to volunteer.

Part of Farm Bureau's commitment to the Ag Program will be assistance in the form of College Scholarships for students enrolled in the Ag program at CR. With additional funding for Scholarships, the Farm Bureau will be a major supporter for our local AG college students.

Another exciting program at CR is the Sustainable School Farm. Located in Shively, CA the farm is providing unique opportunities for students in Organic and Conventional agricultural production under the capable direction of Farm Manager Franz Rulofson. College of the Redwoods is making a commitment to our local agricultural community and if you have the opportunity—thank a CR Board Member .

MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Hello Farm Bureau Members:

I just read a long term weather forecast and El Nino conditions are building near the equator and we may be in for a warm and wet winter. I have also heard several farmers and ranchers with more seasons under their belts than myself, remind me that these past winters have been mild and we will get a bad one soon.

I began a new enterprise this spring; I am now selling meat from my cattle at the Arcata Farmer's Market on Saturdays. The reception has been terrific; there really is a lot of support for locally produced products. Folks have a lot of loyalty toward farmers and ranchers. Besides seeing a market opportunity I saw a chance to meet people and educate folks on the benefits of grazing and productive capabilities of our county. The Farmer's market experience has been very rewarding.

The Humboldt County Farm Bureau has been busy as well. Our Land Use committee and several directors held joint meeting with the Buckeye Conservancy and Cattlemen to develop a unified response to the General Plan Update. I believe a positive attribute of this long process is that agriculture in Humboldt County has united as an industry, regardless of what organization individuals belong.

Most recently, some of our state's bureaucrats which are the staff of the North Coast Regional Water Quality control board, have decided that livestock grazing is the next target of permits and waivers. The watershed of concern is Elk River, which is listed as impaired by sediment in the recently developed TMDL. We have enlisted the help of California Farm Bureau in an effort to head off this attack on property rights which is one of fundamental principles of agriculture.

I wish everyone a good summer and fall. Not a day goes by that we don't think of the Humboldt Creamery's producers and the challenges they are facing. Remember to spread the word that Humboldt County Farm Bureau is working for you! If you believe in Humboldt County Agriculture, encourage someone to join.

Jay Russ, President

The Farm Bureau has received notification that the Estate of Sterling Paddock has been finalized and the Farm Bureau will receive approximately ONE MILLION dollars in cash and property to add to their growing Scholarship Program. Mr. Paddock, who was a cousin to the late Lanette Rousseau, was impressed with the Farm Bureau's professional handling of our Rousseau Scholarships and decided leave his estate to the Farm Bureau for additional college scholarships. Applications for scholarships are due on April 1st of each year and the applications with more information is on our web site at WWW.REDWOODAG.ORG

The Humboldt County Farm Bureau is pleased to announce the 2009 recipients of the Henri & Lanette Rousseau Memorial Scholarships. Both Henri and Lanette Rousseau were lifelong members of Farm Bureau and active on its Board of Directors.

Students must have graduated from a Humboldt County High School and must be attending an accredited College with a major in Agriculture, Science, Education, or Vocational Education.

This year, 49 scholarships for over $53,000 were awarded to graduating Seniors and College renewal students.

Humboldt Woolgrowers Enhance Scholarships

The Board of Directors of the Humboldt County Woolgrowers have voted to donate $15,000 to the Farm Bureau Scholarship Program for the establishment of a Woolgrowers Scholarship. The Woolgrowers will take an active part in selecting the individuals for this award and by using the interest only from this account we will enable the program to continue into the future.

New Charitable 501(C)(3) Established

The Humboldt County Farm Bureau Board of Directors has embarked on a new adventure by establishing a 501(c)(3) Non-Profit Corporation. This new entity will be a stand alone organization with many of the same Board of Directors as the Farm Bureau Board.

The name of the organization is the Redwood Agricultural Education Foundation and the mission is intended to be a generator and organizer of a wide range of programs focused on providing education and information of use to agricultural community and those in production agriculture. The programs will be designed and presented to further the current and future agricultural education of the North Coast of California. These programs will include but not limited to:

- Presentation of Educational Forums
- Sponsor of Community Educational Events.
- Support efforts to Educate & Coordinate various sectors of the production agriculture community
- Support of agricultural education, scholarships and endowments.

The 501(c)(3) tax status will enable the organization to apply for many grants both state and national for Agriculture promotion and education. The organization will also be a vehicle to allow for gifts from individuals and estates for scholarships such as the Rousseau and Paddock estates.

With today's difficult economic times, it is unusual that a Non-Profit organization has the positive financial growth that we are seeing at the Farm Bureau. We hope to use this positive momentum to encourage more individuals and families to support the important programs which this new Non-Profit will offer—not only Scholarship but also educational programs and conservation opportunities. If you would like to learn more about the Redwood Agricultural Education Foundation and how this new 501 (c) (3) organization will operate, give us a call at the Farm Bureau at (707) 443-4844 or look for more information coming to you in the mail.
